ARCHER HUNTINGTON AND WIFE BASEBALL AND RACING FRENCH TAKE GERMAN CITY; STORM GREAT STRONGHOLD; BRITISH ARMY IS IN FRANCE

Seven German Regiments Destroyed at Liege—Kaiser's Loss Now Reported at 30,000, While the Belgians Lost 8,000-Besieging Army of 125,000 Beaten Back To-Day—French Cavalry Is Operating With the Belgians and Big French Army Will Soon Join Them.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 8-The Cunard Liner Lusitania, which sailed from New York, Wednesday Morning at 1.30, is off Bar Harbor, Me., waiting for the fog to lift to enter the port.

It is reported the fast liner, which was to have been converted into an English cruiser as soon as she reached England, ran across the German Atlantic cruiser squadron on her attempted trip across the Atlantic, and that she doubled in her tracks and dashed back to American waters for safety.

The 27-knot speed of the Lusitania probably enabled her to outrun her pursuers. The last wireless from the Lusitania was received in Boston yesterday, when Capt. David Dow, her commander, wirelessed that he was "O. K." and that his ship was speeding toward the English coast. He failed to give his position.

The Lusitania was due in Liverpool to-morrow morning It is likely, therefore, that she was met somewhere near midocean and that the chase back to Bar Harbor lasted for two exciting days.

French Army Takes German Town

PARIS, Aug. 8.—The French army has taken Altkirch, in German territory, about twenty miles northeast from Belfort. It is reported that the German position was carried by storm after a violent engagement in which both sides suffered serious losses.

The German position is in Alsace on the line of German fortifications extending from Colmar, Germany, to Basle on the Swiss border.

Altkirch is 20 miles inside the German frontier, just north of Basle, Switzerland,

The official report of the invasion says the French troops crossed into Alsace and delivered a fierce attack on the German forces at Altkirch, a city of 4,000 inhabitants.

French aviators had been sent up and they located the main body of the German troops guarding the fortifications near Altkirch. The French cavalry scouts were sent out in advance of the main column.

Field artillery and infantry were brought up. The outposts clashed and the French cavalry retired as though they feared a trap. The Germans impetuously pushed forward in pursuit, but suddenly the French cavalry swerved and rode off at right angles across the country, while the French batteries opened fire.

Within a very short time a serious battle was in progress. French reinforcements were pushed forward and the signal given for the infantry to assault the German main position. From Altkirch the French army moved forward and attacked the fortifications which guard the German stronghold at Mulhausen, of miles south-southwest of Strassburg.

Mulhousen is the centre of the cotton industry in Southern Germany and a manufacturing town of note. Should the French penetrate its defenses they will have secured a foothold that will enable them to break through the first line of the German ortifications and be in a position to put Germany on the defensive.

The success of the French was brilliant, and the Alsatians were so delighted at the arrival of the French soldiers that they tore up the frontier posts.

Belgians Outflank Germans at Liege

BRUSSELS, Aug. 8.-King Albert, in personal command of the Belgian cavalry force at Liege, to-day attacked the German flank, hemming them between the advancing elgian troopers and the forts.

At the same time the Liege forts continued a bombardment of the German position.
